Introduction

In the wake of any disaster, timely and credible information plays pivotal role for an informed response. Since the media forges a direct link between the public and responders, play a very important role in disseminating vital information. Disaster risk communication or disaster reporting by print and electronic media at various stages provides disaster managers with necessary information for better preparedness and timely response. To help the media fulfill these roles, effective working relationships between the media and responders plays a pivotal role. Experience shows that regular interactions with the media before a disaster strikes, aids the effective flow of information and lays the groundwork for effective working relationships in the aftermath of a disaster. Awareness through media continues to be one of the most important component.

Keeping in view the significance of media and in continuation to government's policy on media engagement, National Disaster Management Authority (NDMA) and National Humanitarian Network (NHN) with support of Asian Disaster Preparedness Centre (ADPC) are making an endeavor to intrigue opportunity for the media, government and local civil society to work together to support mutual interests. In this context a media workshop to discuss "Partnership with Media" was organized on 27th June 2018 at Islamabad.
